ABSTRACT

Method for synchronizing frames by using pilot patterns in a compressed mode. In a case a W-CDMA mobile communication system is operated in a compressed mode, the present invention permits to restore perfect frame synchronization words in frames by using dedicated pilot sequence pattern, and achieve frame synchronization by using correlation of the restored frame synchronization words, even if all the 15 slots of one frame are not transmitted.